children Children in a Violent Society:

Today's children are bombarded with images of violence in cartoons, news reports, television shows, computer games, movies, and other media. In growing numbers, they are also exposed to real life violence in their own homes and communities as witnesses, victims, and increasingly, perpetrators. Emphasizing the need for early intervention and prevention, this timely book details the incidence and scope of the violence epidemic and examines the developmental impact. This book is a unique contribution to our understanding of a problem that is of increasing concern to people here and abroad but which has received inadequate public attention to date. Over the last two decades, there has been much needed and increased
