The strain of caring for children struggling with severe and complex mental health needs affects the entire family. The staff at the innovative Croft Child and Family Unit have developed a unique approach of working intensively with the whole family and encouraging them to share their experiences with other families to instigate a complete change that will benefit all family members. Using detailed case studies to illustrate the model the book focuses on the there is a wealth of creative and skill based learning to be explored here with access to various tools and measures.
